Dear Keyik,

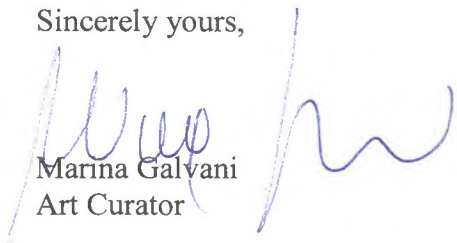

It was a privilege to host works by Durdy Bayramov at the World Bank headquarters in Washington, DC, from November 17-30, 2015, in conjunction with the celebration of the 24th Anniversary of Independence Day and the 20th Anniversary of the Permanent Neutrality of Turkmenistan.

This exhibition was the first World Bank show dedicated solely to Turkmen art, and it is thanks to the Durdy Bayramov Art Foundation that we were able to present such an acclaimed artist's work. Durdy Bayramov was truly a people's artist and a patriot of Turkmenistan. In his art one witnesses both the soul of the artist and the spirit of his homeland.

The feedback that we have received from our staff and visitors about this solo exhibition has been overwhelmingly positive. This speaks to the appeal of Durdy Bayramov's art among people of diverse ages and backgrounds.

The World Bank Art Program looks forward to future collaborations with the Durdy Bayramov Art Foundation. I would be happy to discuss with you a potential exhibition of Durdy Bayramov's photography in 2016.

Sincerely yours,

Marina Galvani
Art Curator
